Overnight parking restrictions will be relaxed from 12 a.m. on December 18, 2011 to 12 a.m. on January 8, 2012.

The relaxing of restrictions allows Temple City residents and their holiday guests to park overnight on city streets without a permit.

All other parking restrictions, including those for oversized vehicles, remain in effect.

Permits are normally required to park on city streets between 2 and 5 a.m. This allows residents and sheriff deputies to quickly spot suspicious vehicles.

Enforcement of the required permit will resume January 8, 2012 at 2 a.m.
